Immigration Judge Terminates Case

- Client Was Admitted But Did Not Enter With A Visa

Client grew up in an orphanage. She met her father while she was at the orphanage. When she was a teenager, her father brought her to the U.S. Client's father told her that she was born in the U.S. and gave her a U.S. birth certificate. Client used this birth certificate to enter the U.S. after traveling abroad on many occasions.

In January 2011, the Department of State (DOS) informed Client that her U.S. birth certificate was fraudulent. DOS found that Client was not involved in the fraud. However, Client was placed in removal proceedings. Meanwhile, Client's USC daughter filed an I-130 Petition for her. During the proceedings, the IJ found that Client was inspected and admitted based on her previous entries with the birth certificate. We were able to establish that Client never falsely claimed to be a U.S. Citizen. Since Client was admitted, the IJ found her eligible for adjustment of status.

In September 2011, the IJ terminated Client's removal proceedings and allowed her to apply for adjustment of status with USCIS.
